CLEVELAND'S SECOND CROWD OF TOURISTS SEE HONOLULU SIGHTS

Delighted With Paradise of the Pacific and All in It.

As the great ocean liner Cleveland swing around Diamond Head and steamed slowly toward the channel entrance to Honolulu harbor in the gray dawn of yesterday, the heavy pull of gist lifted, the threatening rain filled blows of clouds hovering over Mount tock and Old Sol beamed glariously and and fifty five American tourists should the great ship. Then they saw hing before them the semitropical city of the Paradise of the Pacific, the fortifiel American outpost two thousand miss distant from their own mainland, the last American stopping place in their long globe-circling journey.

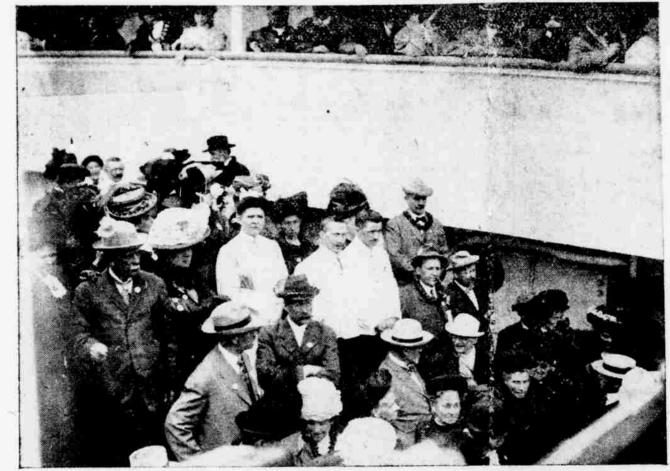

The city, after its two days' drench or never looked more beautiful, more wing into strong relief the fres of its trees. Again it was evelund weather," for when the Ceveland last visited here Honolulu experienced a two weeks' rain which ceased just as the big tourist teamer was signaled off port. The great crowd of globe trotters so far from their shares, but an seriean city for all that. It was their first stop on the long world voy we and the entrance to the port could et have been made under more auspitiogs circumstances. The weather was ideal from the moment the vessel in welcome and the local people re-

GUESTS OF CLUB

Dr. Burdette and E. J. Westlake Occupy Seats of Honor at Banquet.

A dinner in honor of Dr. Robert J Burdetie and Ellis J. Westlake, the latter secretary of the Commercial Club mercial Club of Honolula last night in the dining room of the club building. The speakers of the occasion were the two guests of honor and Senator George T. Wilson of Minneapolis,

On account of the large number of ther things going on in the city last hight, the attendance at the dinner was smaller than the occasion deserved, but about seventy five sat down to the tables. President F. W. Macfarlane presided and introduced the speakers, At the table at which were scated Doctor Burdette, Mr. Westlake and the presi dent of the club were also five citizens of Minneapolis, all members of the Commercial Club of that city. Their presence, Secretary Westlake said, nade it necessary for him to be somewhat cautious what he said.

When the first few courses had been served, President Macfarlane rapped with his spoon for order and introduced Doctor Burdette as the first speaker. Doctor Burdette's address, as usual,
